

WETS AND DRY
BATTLING FOR REVENUE JOB

Business Men More Interested in Man's Ability Than in His Thirst.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1921, by Post Pub. Co.)
Washington—The biggest job in the government service still unfilled is the commissioner of internal revenue. And the various influences fighting for and against various candidates constitute the most spectacular contest for a government post that the national capital has witnessed in a long time.

Judging by the activities of the "wets" and "drys" one would suppose that the commissioner of internal revenue has the power to make the country moist or arid according to his own thirst or the desires of his friends. The anti-saloon league is on the job working in its usual effective way to prevent the appointment of any one who is in the least degree unfriendly to the enforcement of the prohibition laws.

But the thing which nobody seems to be stressing—indeed, one hears very little about it from any quarter—is that the commissioner of internal revenue must be an administrative officer of executive talents and must really collect the taxes for the nation—practically all of four billion dollars a year must go through his office in one form or another.

The public generally has been irritated over the income tax law and has demanded not merely that taxes should be lowered, but that an understandable income tax blank be drafted and the auditing of income tax returns be expedited. It happens in many cases that the income tax auditor opens up business accounts two and three years after the return itself has been made. The disturbing effect of slow auditing has already been felt in business. Under the strain of wartime the two commissioners—Daniel C. Roper and William Williams—have done a splendid job but their personnel in keeping experienced personnel were manifold. Congress has a habit of cutting off appropriations from government departments which most men would not do. It was not always easy for the internal revenue establishment to get from congress the help that was needed.

Yet the big job of the commissioner of internal revenue is not prohibition enforcement but administration of the income tax laws. The next congress will go before the people for reelection a year from next autumn and will have to answer on questions of taxation. What the business men of this country are interested in is a competent administrator in the internal revenue office and most of them do not care in the slightest whether the appointee is "wet" or "dry."

The national capital is expecting an appointment of commissioner of internal revenue in a few days. If Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has his way, the country will get an able administrator. If the politicians are supreme, the job will become part of the spoils of the campaign and the personnel of the internal revenue office throughout the nation will be political puppets as was very largely the case under the democratic administration.

Chicago—A resolution asking President Harding to intervene against the "granny" of the black and tan system in Ireland was introduced Monday in the opening session of the convention of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic.

The resolution has the approval of the resolutions committee and will be signed by Justice John W. Goff of New York.

Five thousand delegates from over the country are here attending the convention which will last three days. Mayor William H. Thompson opened the sessions Monday and was followed by Frank P. Walsh, Washington attorney.

Harry Boland, "envoy" of the Irish republic in the United States, reviewed Ireland's fight for freedom.

"All liberty loving citizens of the United States should join to aid Irish freedom," he said.

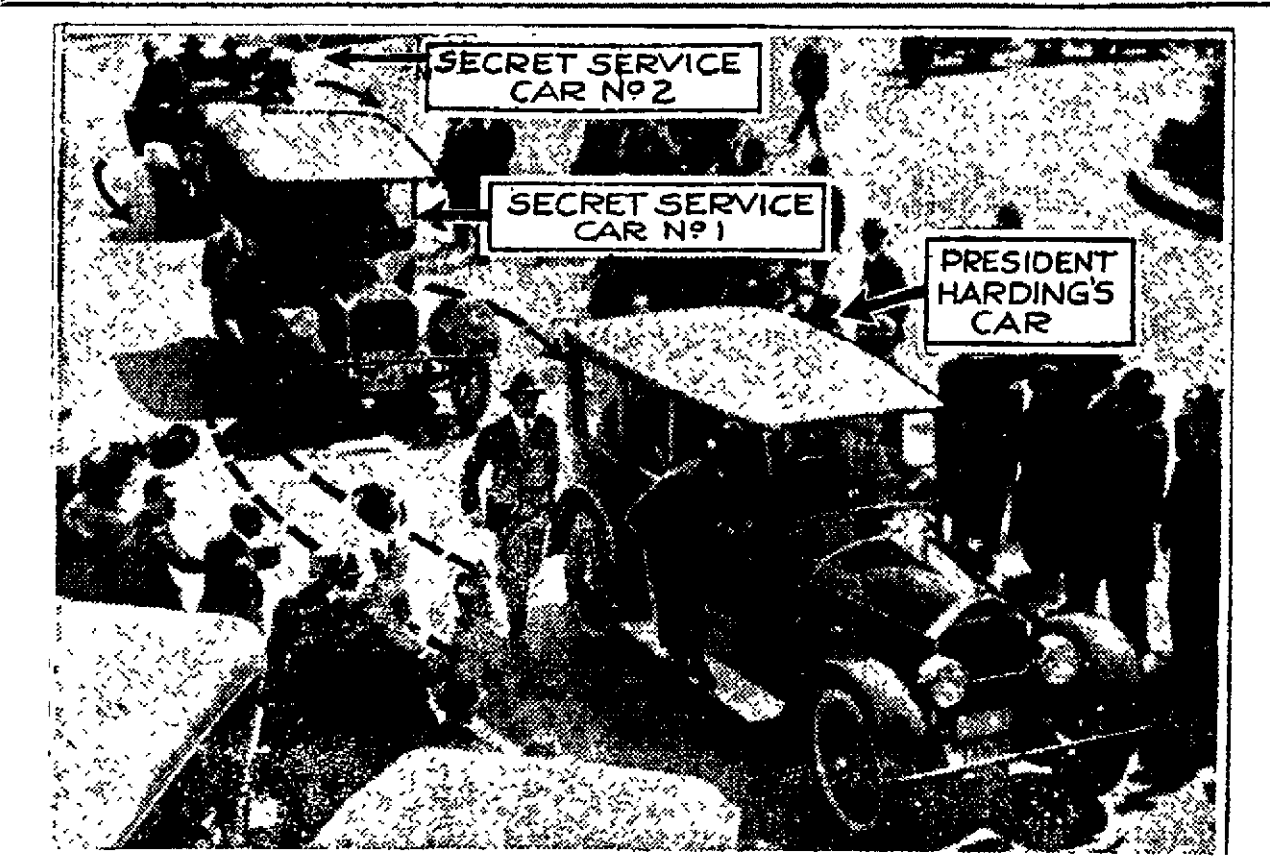

"We are having the same battle now that the American people did in 1776."

ASKS STAY OF SENTENCE FOR LEADERS OF I. W. W.

Chicago—Otto Christensen, attorney, Monday wired Attorney General Daugherty asking a stay in execution of the sentences of William Haywood and 59 other members of the I. W. W. sentenced from one to twenty years in jail for violation of the espionage act.

Christensen pleaded for time for his clients to start up their personal affairs before sending their sentences.

THIS SHOWS HOW PRESIDENT IS GUARDED

You hear a lot about the secret service men who guard the president everywhere he goes. Ever wonder how they work? Look at this photo-diagram. The picture was snapped in Washington a few days ago. President Harding is in the front car. The three secret service men from S. S. Car 1 have reached the president's car while it is still moving. One has hopped on the running board, another is running up just behind him and the third has jumped up on the far side of the car. By the time the president is alighting the secret service men shown stepping out of S. S. Car 2 will be all around him to see him safely through the crowd. Every time the president goes out in his car the secret service cars are right behind.

WANT MORE TIME TO PRESENT WAGE CASE

Unions Protest Against "Rail-roading" of Petitions to Reduce Pay.

Chicago—Plea of railroad unions to halt hearing of the application of railroads to reduce wages, pending confirmation by the senate of newly-nominated members of the United States rail labor board, was denied by the board Monday.

The "big four" brotherhoods and switchmen were refused a separate hearing in the wage controversy.

The carriers were given a week to present their demand for wage reductions; after a week's recess the unions will have a week for the case.

Washington.—Protest was voiced Monday by twenty-eight railroad labor organizations against alleged "railroading" through the United States rail labor board hearing on the petition by the roads for reduction in wages.

Representatives of the "big four" brotherhood, shop crafts and unskilled labor charged in many instances the railroads had not made an "honest effort" to bring about wage conferences with employees but had gone directly to the railroad board with application for decreases.

The unions demanded unlimited time to present their case. Railroad representatives said many roads would go into the hands of receivers if immediate action is not taken. They asked time for presentation be limited to the eight hours set by the board.

The "big four" brotherhoods and switchmen applied for a separate hearing. The board took under consideration a demand by unions that the hearing be postponed until the senate confirms the appointment of three newly-nominated members.

GETTING READY TO MAKE "REAL BEER" IN STATE

Milwaukee—Orders received by, and activities about the offices of the internal revenue collector here Monday indicated real beer was "just around the corner."

And with Milwaukee just emerging from the heaviest snow since 1881, it looked like many new illnesses with beer as a cure would be spring on doctors.

The revenue office, it was said, has received orders to get ready to supervise manufacture of real beer by Wisconsin brewers.

The orders say that keys to locks on beer vats in breweries must be inspected to make sure that they are in readiness for use. Each vat has two locks—one checks the flow of beer in its green state and the other beer ready for consumption. The locks are under the supervision of the revenue department to fix the amount of beer in order to fix the tax.

INVESTIGATION EXPECTED TO FOLLOW PRICE REPORT

Washington.—A congressional investigation of prices Monday was expected to be one of the first results of the federal trade commission's report on the subject.

The report holds that the cost of living still is too high and that prices must go down to insure restoration of normal business.

Producers' prices have dropped but the cost to the consumer has not come down in proportion, it was pointed out.

Head of Steel Corporation Believes Present Policies of Trade Organization Are Tending Toward Destruction.

By United Press Leased Wire
New York—Labor unions should be regulated and controlled by the government to prevent "disaster and destruction," Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, declared in a statement to the stockholders, made public here Monday.

"It means to me that the natural, if not the necessary result of the contemplated program of labor unions, if successful, will be to obtain control of the shops, then of the general management of business, then of capital, and finally of government," he said.

He urged the passage of laws to "apply to all economic organizations, groups or bodies exceeding certain specified numbers or amounts," and added that "both organized capital and labor should be placed under these laws."

Gary declared that "the natural and certain effects of labor unionism are expressed by three words—inefficiency, high costs."

"And be it remembered," he said, "that in the end the general public must pay for extortionate, unnecessary and unreasonable costs of production. It is primarily and fundamentally interested in the existence and conduct of labor unions."

"The end sought by labor unions, that at least to which their efforts tend, means disaster and destruction. It is noticeable that oftentimes they seek to control politics and openly as a body, advocate the election or defeat of even the president of the United States. They oppose or favor legislation of diverse kinds. They would regulate police departments. Worse than everything else, they would dominate the supreme court of the United States our citadel of defense to person and property—to civilization itself."

"Possibly there is a solution or a antidote to the labor union problem. I do not believe in socialism, in government management or operation, but I do advocate publicity, regulation and reasonable control through government agencies. Members of commissions or departments should be non-partisan, non-sectarian, based on qualifications and moral character. Their decisions should be subject to review by the highest courts."

V. S. McClatchy, publisher of the Sacramento Bee, representing the Japanese Exclusion League of California, told the committee "there is very grave danger" to this country unless these steps are taken. He protested against naturalized Japanese being stewards on the president's yacht, on battleships and in "other important places," declaring that under Japanese law they continue to be Japanese citizens, despite American citizenship and "in case of war must be traitors to Japan if they remain loyal to the United States."

McClatchy said that out of 70,000 or 80,000 Japanese born in the United States and Hawaii, only 73 have applied to the Japanese government for repatriation, in order to accept unserved American citizenship.

200 CASES OF LIQUOR STOLEN FROM DISTILLERY

Portia, Wis.—Twenty-five armed and masked hi-jackers early Monday made a wholesale raid on the Cornish distillery and made their getaway with 200 cases of liquor. They bound and gagged five watchmen and locked them up while the raid was conducted. Three auto trucks were used in hauling the wet goods from the distillery.

In the store with Harding were his wife and two neighbor boys who were waiting for their employer to return from an elevator meeting.

The facts and descriptions in the case connect it very closely with a series of robberies and holdups throughout that community during the last two or three weeks.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS
ANTI-HIGH RENT LAWS

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington—Washington rent protesters were dealt a heavy blow by the United States supreme court Monday. It held valid the District of Columbia rent law passed by congress during the war to protect tenants.

The inference from the majority opinion was that other state legislatures also can enact laws to protect people against rent profiteers.

Justice Holmes declared the public interest justified the passage of the rent law.

The court unqualifiedly upheld the right of district commissions to fix rents.

NERVOUS AS ITS COAL PILE MELTS

Government Continues Recruiting Men for Action in Case of Trouble.

By Ed. L. Keen
By United Press Leased Wire
London—Appalled at the creeping paralysis attacking her industries, Great Britain Monday lost some of her joy at the cancellation of the triple alliance strike.

Hundreds of small businesses closed their doors Monday, unable to continue without increased supplies of coal. The expense of meeting the situation and the suffering of thousands of unemployed continued unabated.

To cut the cost somewhat the great food distribution centers were disbanded and the parks again were open to the public. Thousands passed through the playground which a few hours before had been filled with tins and cases of provisions intended to withstand labor's siege.

Recruiting of defense forces continued. With the miners still on a strike and disaffected in allied organizations dissatisfied with the cancellation of their strike order, the government took no chance on a surprise attack. The newly recruited forces donned the government khaki for the first time last night.

There was an anxious feeling in official circles that the problem has not been solved. It was feared that unless the miners are placated with substantial wage adjustments that serious difficulties will arise when railwaymen and transport workers face a revision of their scales.

Among the miners, the Welsh and Scotch are bitter. There was little hope that they will return to work soon. In other districts the strike funds have been dissipated and the workers already have shown a desire to return to the pits and let their leaders reach an agreement with colliery owners on wages.

No steps toward settlement of the dispute have been taken as yet but it was believed the government will attempt to obtain coal from other sources, permitting the negotiations to go forward unhindered.

There was slight hope that a real peace will result from a miners' meeting called for next Friday.

GIRL DIES OF FRIGHT
WHEN SHE SEES DRUNK

By United Press Leased Wire
Pittsburgh, Pa.—Completion of the coronor's investigation in the death of Nadine Kramer, 8-year-old girl, whose body was found beneath the floor of a north side stable after a five day search, was awaited Monday as city detectives reviewed the confession of John Miller, 36, that he had placed the child in the death pit.

Miller, a stableman, was arrested soon after the body was discovered by the child's father. He had been sleeping in the decomposed body for several days.

Miller told authorities the girl ran into the stable one night while he was sleeping there and that she fainted from fright. Being in a drunken stupor, he stated, he placed the girl in a hole under the floor planking.

An examination of the body disclosed the child had not been assaulted. Death was due to fright.

Miller was unable to explain teeth marks still visible on his arms.

FLOOD IS THREATENING
MENOMONEE RIVER FOLKS

By United Press Leased Wire
Milwaukee—Residents in the Menomonee river valley, particularly in the vicinity of Center City, were preparing Monday to flee their homes from threatened floods.

The river was up more than two feet Monday with danger of flooding many homes and factories.

The threatened flood was due to melting snow of the record fall of Saturday. Which was the heaviest snowfall in any 24 hours since 1881.

Milwaukee and the eastern district of Wisconsin has practically come back to normal again Monday. Warmer weather indicated disappearance of the great snowfall, but brought danger of floods.

FIGHTS ORDER SENDING
MAYOR BACK TO IRELAND

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington—A resolution to prevent the deportation of Cork O'Callaghan, lord mayor of Cork, was introduced in the house Monday by Representative Sabath, democrat, Illinois.

It declares that O'Callaghan is a political refugee and that to deport him would be against American principles.

DISARMAMENT STEPS MUST AWAIT SIGNING OF PEACE

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington—Definite steps toward disarmament were promised by President Harding Monday according to members of the women's peace committee which called at the White House.

These steps cannot be taken, Harding is said to have explained, until a "disarmament is the modern ideal of Christianity," Harding was reported as telling the women.

He expressed himself as being as heartily in favor of any of the delegations in doing everything possible toward "approximate disarmament."

FREIGHT RATES
TOO HIGH, RAILS
LOSE BUSINESS

Road Builders and Quarry Owners Want Reduction in Shipping Rates.

By United Press Leased Wire
Madison.—The railroads of Wisconsin had lost $800,000 so far this year and would lose another $500,000 in revenue because of high freight rates on sand and gravel and crushed stone.

A. R. Hirst, state highway engineer, told the members of the railroad commission Monday in supporting the application of the Wisconsin Mineral Aggregate association for lower rail road rates.

Traffic men, representing all trunk line railways, filed a vigorous protest at the public hearing against any reduction in rates. They held that war time costs still ruled so far that rail road operation was concerned and a reduction of rates at this time would be serious.

A. F. Cleveland, assistant traffic manager of the Chicago and North western, told the commissioners the present scale of rates prevailing in Wisconsin was fair and should be maintained until lower operating costs justified a reduction.

Representatives of the Wisconsin Mineral Aggregate association, the members of which control most of the sand and gravel pits and stone quarries in the state, told the commission unless an emergency rate ceiling for a reduction in freight on these commodities ranging from 15 to 25 percent was granted, community sand and gravel pits as well as quarries would be developed resulting in a loss of investment to the material supply of the state.

The freight rates on sand, gravel and crushed stone are now so high the mission was told, that shipments by rail are practically impossible. Three million dollars in waste and road work will be deferred until lower rates prevail, they said.

ARREST TWO MORE IN DRUG RING EXPOSURE

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago—James Andrews and "Izzy" Marks were held by federal authorities Monday in connection with the exposure of a $50,000 drug peddler's ring.

Andrews, Marks, alleged leaders, were rounded up through a Greek letter written by Charles Costello, prisoner in the Will County jail, charged with violating the Harrison anti-narcotic law. It asked Andrews to give to Marks a package containing thirteen boxes in package the writer (Costello's) brother did not set it first.

Federal men said they seized thirteen boxes of drugs in a flat where Marks and Andrews were arrested. Costello's brother was sought by federal authorities.

FOREST FIRES THREATEN

By United Press Leased Wire
St. Paul, Minn.—Forest fires in the vicinity of Alaska state park in northwestern Minnesota, are becoming dangerous and additional forces of fire fighters are needed at the state, according to reports to the state forester at the capital Monday.

Rangers in the vicinity of the state park telephoned that fires were burning there in on three sides. They called for 40 more men immediately.

WANT SUPREME COURT TO OUST HOWAT'S APPEAL

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington—The state of Kansas Monday asked the supreme court to dismiss the appeal of Alexander Howat, state mine leader, attacking the constitutionality of the Kansas court of industrial relations.

The new court, an innovation in industrial relations, has been attacked bitterly by organized labor, which is expected to endeavor to make an issue out of the Howat appeal.

ORDERS NEW PROBE
OF OFFICER'S DEATH

Senator Calder Secures New
Hearing on Murder Committed in 1918.

By United Press Leased Wire
New York—A new investigation of the death of Major Alexander P. Cronkhite and subsequent arrests has been ordered by Attorney General Daugherty, at the request of U. S. Senator Calder. It was announced here Monday by counsel for former Captain Robert Rosenbluth, charged with instigating the killing of Cronkhite.

According to Jonah H. Goldstein, attorney for Rosenbluth, the situation has a parallel in the famous Dreyfus case in France. The lawyer contends that government investigators have attempted to influence witnesses and censor statements favorable to Rosenbluth in order to strengthen the case against him.

Major Cronkhite who was a son of Brigadier General Adelbert Cronkhite, was killed while at target practice at Camp Lewis, Wash., Oct. 25, 1918.

Sergeant Roland P. Pothier, arrested in Providence, R. I., March 18 by department of justice agents, has made five separate confessions that he murdered Cronkhite, according to Prosecutor J. W. Seldon of Tacoma, Wash., to whom the case has been referred by the government. In the last of these it is said, he claimed Rosenbluth induced him to kill Cronkhite.

Rosenbluth, who has made a complete denial of Pothier's charges, is at liberty here on $25,000 bail.

EASY TO VIOLATE
BADGER RUM LAW

Just Pick Up Glass of Liquor and Move and Jail Term
Is in Prospect.

Madison.—You don't have to carry liquor any distance to violate the law—just pick it up and move and you are guilty of transporting liquor and may be put in jail, according to an opinion handed down Monday by Attorney General William J. Morgan.

Milwaukee resident acquired several cases of whiskey which he stored in a barn stable. He was in the act of carrying one case of liquor from the barn stable to his automobile when arrested.

Zabel wanted to know whether it was necessary to complete the transaction by carrying the liquor to destination before the law against transporting liquor could be involved. The attorney general held that distance was not a matter of moment in the case. The intention of the person to deliver liquor to a certain destination coupled with the beginning of actual transportation was sufficient evidence to justify conviction under the statutes.

WANT HIGH COURT TO REVIEW CONVICTIONS

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington.—A belated attack on the wartime prohibition law was opened in the supreme court Monday when George W. Baltimore men asked a review of their convictions under this statute.

The main contention is that the wartime act was enacted after the war had ended and that indictments against the men were returned after demobilization had been completed. The men were indicted Oct. 28, 1920.

MISTAKEN FOR SINN
FEIN, FIGHT THEMSELVES

Dublin.—Battling fiercely in a drunken brawl at Castle Connell, county Limerick, two groups of British soldiers Monday killed three men and wounded several more before discovering neither side was Sinn Fein.

The fighting started when a crowd of soldiers in civilian clothes walked into the barracks and drawn rowdies. Civilians at the tables started emptying their own revolvers at the supposed Sinn Feiners.

The one lamp in the room was shattered at the first volley.

The hotel proprietor, acting as his own bartender, was the first to be shot down.

The little room echoed with revolver shots and wounded men slid to the floor. The fight ended when one of the soldiers yelled a familiar battle cry.

The Japanese note then makes this important point:

"Nor are the imperial governments alone and unsupported in their interpretation of the decision for they are in receipt of authentic information that the governments of Great Britain and France being of the same opinion as the Japanese government on the matter made statements to that effect in their replies to the American note in November last."

"To sum up," the note continues, "since in a matter of such grave nature as the establishment of mandatory territories only what appears on the face of the decisions should be accepted as authoritative, the imperial government cannot agree in giving

PLANT EXPERT TO BE AT APPLE CREEK

A second meeting has been arranged by the college of agriculture, Madison, for farmers who wish to have their cabbage seed treated for black rot and stump rot. It will be held at 8 o'clock Thursday evening in Apple Creek hall to accommodate farmers in that locality.

Dr. E. E. Vaughan, plant disease expert, will be here on Thursday to treat seed with corrosive sublimate. He will be in Grand Chute town hall all Thursday afternoon.

This treatment is done without charge for the farmers and is considered a means of eliminating part of the yearly loss from cabbage diseases. By killing germ on the seed much of the black rot and stump rot is done away with, but it cannot be eradicated entirely because of the possibility of further germs in the soil and seed beds. Dr. Vaughan will be assisted by William Wilhams.

THREE YOUNG MEN ARRESTED WERE AS PURSE SNATCHERS

Also Admit Burglarizing Cottage—Officer Deltgen Makes Quick Arrests.

One of the fastest pieces of police work in Appleton for some time was accomplished about 9 o'clock Saturday evening when Officer Albert Deltgen pursued and arrested single-handed three "bums" who were charged with snatching a purse from Mrs. Theodore Loose, rural route No. 3, while she was walking along State-st. This is the first time since Chief George T. Prim came to Appleton that a case of this kind has been reported to him.

The men, gave their names as Frank Parker 18, James Olmstead, 18, and Ray Gore, 22 all of Marquette, Mich. They were questioned by Chief Prim and Parker is alleged to be the man who committed the offense.

Mrs. Loose had been visiting her sister on Sherman-pl. and while crossing the Chicago and Northwestern tracks on State-st. was accosted by the three men, one of whom grabbed her handbag. The men fled down the railroad tracks toward the junction. Mrs. Loose hurried into the Rusch hardware store and told her story.

Officer Deltgen responded with the police automobile, secured a description of the men and drove out Lawrence-st. toward the junction. Mrs. Loose could not give a very good description, but recalled that one man had a cap and a mackinaw. Three men walking along the tracks were believed by Deltgen to be the offenders. He made them get into the Black Maria and took them to jail, where they were locked up and questioned.

From information gained by Chief Prim it appears that the men had been roaming from city to city sleeping nights in police stations. They apparently were without money and decided to go out and steal some. Parker is alleged to have snatched the purse and the three then entered the Haug wood yards, where they examined their loot. It happened that Mrs. Loose carried no money in the handbag, so they got nothing. All it contained was a rosary, mirror and one or two toilet articles. The men threw the purse under a wood pile and went on. Police later found it where the men say they hid it.

In court Monday morning the young men also admitted breaking into the John Jacquet cottage on the lower river Friday night, stealing a woolen sweater, pair of shoes and some chips. One of the men left his high boots at the cottage. Officer Deltgen, who knew of the burglary, noticed that one of the men's trousers showed signs of being folded into the tops of boots and questioning brought forth admission of the burglary.

Cases against the men were continued until 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon to permit of further investigation.

CHARGE YOUTHS WITH STEALING 2 SMALL MOTORS

William Thompson and John Heidger Arrested for Theft at Telulah Mill.

Charged with larceny of two small electric motors valued at $30 each from the Telulah mill of the Fox River Paper company, William Thompson, 22, and John Heidger, 22, living on Manitowoc-rd., were arrested Saturday. They appeared in court Monday morning and admitted their guilt. They were bound over for trial on May 2.

Discovery of the theft was made by A. L. Small, master mechanic at the Telulah mill. He found one of the motors hidden in a box Saturday morning. Watch was kept all day and at 5 o'clock, Thompson is alleged to have wrapped it in his overalls and some paper and walked out with it under his arm. The police were notified and he was arrested by Officer John Kobussen as he was about to board a southbound interurban for home.

Thompson admitted the theft, but said he was taking the motor home for Heidger, who had assisted him in detaching it from the machinery at the Telulah plant in the morning. A similar motor had been stolen by Thompson Friday and this was found at his home. He said he took it with the intention of using it on a sewing machine.

Chief George T. Prim, Detective John Duvall and Officer Albert Deltgen started out Saturday evening to get Heidger, after Thompson had accused him of complicity in the theft. Heidger was on his way to town at the time. The police overtook him after finding he was not at home and offered him a ride downtown. He accepted and was escorted to a cell in the police station.

They were scheduled to reach home Saturday evening, but did not get here until late Sunday morning.

MY FIRST JOB

W. F. SAECKE
Merchant

I never had what I might call a first job. I worked ever since I was able to get around. My father was a blacksmith, and all of us boys as we became old enough, went into the shop to learn the blacksmith trade. As each younger son grew up, the son in the shop was declared old enough to go out to work for money. My father had to build a platform for me so that I could work the bellows. I could not even reach to the top of the anvil. However, my turn came to go out into the world and I took up work on a farm at about $6 a month.

Albert Gutschow, town of Grand Chute, visited friends at Brillion Saturday.

New sanitary stuffing benches and stuffing tables have replaced those formerly in use and a truck system similar to those used in packing houses will convey the sausage to new smoking houses in the rear of the meat market. After being smoked the sausage will be returned by carrier to the cooler and thence to the cooler. Under the new arrangement the sausage will be handled only once whereas at present it is handled four times.

THE TARIFF BILL
The emergency tariff bill passed by the house and admittedly framed in the senate, is a leap in the dark. Not even Mr. Fordney, its nominal author, can predict what the results of this hastily considered measure will be. Of course, it will be passed. Practically any measures which the leaders of the house or senate, especially the latter, submitted to congress, would be passed and signed by the president.

The whole thing is an experiment, designed primarily to protect the farmer and producer and secondarily the manufacturer. The bill is substantially the same as that passed in the last session and vetoed by President Wilson and contains an anti-dumping clause.

One possibility of this hurriedly conceived tariff is that it may still further curtail American exports, which have shown a marked falling off in recent months. If the protection afforded the farmer will result in increased prices and increased demand for his products, well and good, for that is a thing which is to be desired, but we cannot lose sight of the fact that this is essentially an exporting nation and that our exports must now more largely than ever be paid for with imports. International trade cannot be altogether one-sided, and particularly is this true when the purchasers of American goods are already heavily indebted to us nationally and their finances and credit in a state of prostration.

However, congress and the president are the judge and doctor and whatever undertakings they engage in for a restoration of prosperity should be accorded an opportunity to demonstrate their worth.

OUR SUPPORT OF THE SCHOOLS
In 1635 Benjamin Simms, a Virginian, left this quaint legacy to the schools in his parish:

Two hundred acres of land with milk and increase of eight cows for the maintenance of an earnest and honest man to keep a free school for the education of the children of the parishes of Elizabeth City and Keokuan.

Benjamin Simms wanted a qualified teacher and was prepared to pay well for him. In his day, the idea of supporting the schools through public taxation was unheard of and only through charity could the children of any but the wealthy go to school. Indeed it was not until 1850 that the idea was firmly implanted in America that schools must be free, for all, and supported by all.

The first general public support for schools came from the national government which granted "section 16" of every township in the "Northwest Territory" for the support of public schools. These lots were for the most part sold while land was still very cheap, and the proceeds became the common school fund in most states. This fund was a tremendous aid in establishing schools, but in Wisconsin and all rapidly settled prosperous states, it soon became much too small to meet the needs of the rapidly increasing schools.

The further necessities of the schools in Wisconsin are met by local property taxes and by levying a state tax of seven tenths of a mill, on the assessed valuation of property. In other states the money is raised in various ways. In a large number of the states a bigger state tax than Wisconsin's is levied. Illinois, for instance, has a two mill tax. Minnesota a one mill tax. Indiana, a one and thirty-six hundredths mill tax. A bill before the Wisconsin legislature calls for a one mill tax for schools to bring Wisconsin in line with other equally prosperous and progressive states.

Economists are considering the diversion of income, corporation, and inheritance taxes into the school funds. Wisconsin is also presenting to its lawmakers in another bill the idea of using 70 per cent of the inheritance taxes for school purposes. Whatever is done with the regular state levy for school purposes should be increased to at least one mill. It is said that we are spending as much money as other states, population and wealth considered, but if that is the case we are not spending enough. The needs of public education in Wisconsin are extensive and acute, and no greater returns can possibly accrue to its people than from a larger investment in public schools.

THE FORESTRY MOVEMENT
State forestry is on the eve of a remarkable development if one can judge from the interest being manifested throughout the country in various phases of state forest legislation. Most of the legislatures are now in session, and in practically all of the timbered states, forestry bills already have been or are expected to be introduced. Thus in the northeast Maine is considering the regulation of cutting on private lands through the establishment of auxiliary state forests. The New Hampshire legislature has before it bills providing for the leaving of seed trees on pine lands, for compulsory forest fire patrol, and for the disposal of slashings. Massachusetts is planning to continue its purchase of state forests and to acquire the picturesque Mohawk trail. Connecticut is proposing to modify the present system of forest taxation and to enlarge the State Park commission into the State Park and Forest commission.

The Wisconsin legislature has before it a number of measures relating to the forestry problem. There is an amendment to the constitution to authorize the state to acquire, preserve and develop state forests. A bill has been introduced to insure fire prevention while bills are pending to give the state four state parks, including the state forest region, with one park in the lake region of 8,500 acres with twenty lakes and an area of virgin timber.

In other Central States, Indiana is endeavoring to improve its present fire protective system and to encourage timber production through tax exemption. The American Forestry association points to the south, where Texas is considering the adoption of a comprehensive forest policy with particular emphasis on fire protection and reforestation, and the adoption of a severance tax similar to that already in force in Louisiana. In the far west, California has established a state nursery, is cooperating with timberland owners in slash disposal, is planning greatly increased expenditures for fire protection and a revision of its present system of forest taxation, and is looking forward to the establishment of state forests.

These are but samples of the widespread interest which the states generally are manifesting in the protection and perpetuation of their forest resources. It is to be hoped that the movement will bear fruit in the enactment of a considerable number of progressive and effective forestry measures.

WHAT OF IT?
By Berton Briley
Come the the stately minuet
The lancers and the gay gavotte.
Some view their passing with regret
But I confess that I do not.
Virginia reels are gone to pot
They couldn't hold their vogue, somehow,
I can't say that I weep a lot.
We're dancing only fox-trots now.
The waltz-quadrille is never met
The two-steps in a burial plot.
And who is there remembers yet
The maxixe or the turkey trot?
The one-step's on the wane, I wot.
Soon it will make its final bow.
Well, let it go, I care no jot.
We're dancing only fox-trots now.

Oh very soon do we forget
The dance of yesterday, and blot
It from our memory, and let
New steps absorb us on the spot;
The shimmy's bolt is nearly shot.
Though jazz still rules the floor, I vow,
I like it, though it may be rot.
We're dancing only fox-trots now.

ENVOY
Princess, you savvy what is what
We'll dance while fortune will allow,
All other steps are quite forgot
We're dancing only fox-trots now!

250,000 BABIES DIE IN SINGLE YEAR
By Lillian D. Wald
In this rich country we lose about three times more babies every year, before they reach their first birthday, than was our total loss from battle in the war. We lost annually 250,000 infants, and in a single year, 1918, the lost 23,000 mothers from causes connected with childbirth.

The recognition of responsibility for the child as a ward of the state and for women as mothers and as executives in the home is now accepted by countries throughout the world calling themselves civilized. But—aside from a few favored localities where it has been demonstrated that rich returns follow efforts, seriously made, to save life—America is in this respect a laggard nation.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY.—V.
"Lo, Granny
I want to say right here that father and I have no more use for yarn-spinning old women of either sex than ever we had. Still we do not hesitate to say that we hand it to grandma in the matter of saving the baby from that kind of dietetic molly-coddism which comes in cans. Grandma has all-natural, or, at least, solid food, much to the consternation of the scientific mother and the old-time infant feeding specialist. Once in a while perhaps grandma has really done harm by selecting some knock-knack for the experiment that proved too tough for him, but if our modern pathology is right even this mistake has caused no more than a temporary upset.

When I was seven months old they began feeding me a teaspoonful or two of vegetable soup every day. First I had asparagus, peas, or potatoes, cooked and strained through a sieve. Later they fed me carrots, beets, cauliflower, spinach, and grated celery—when I was ten months old and had about six front teeth.

By the time I was a year old my first molars were on the job, and then they allowed me to have my vegetables just mashed up, for I could chew for myself by that time. Of course I had been taking gruel and soups and broths since my eighth month, but now dad and mother agreed that the little scraped beef or tender meat of any kind was the right caper for me.

Here is a sample menu I enjoyed at the age of two years:

Breakfast
Apple sauce, or orange pulp, or any stewed fruit. Entire wheat cooked three hours, with plenty of cream or milk and all the brown sugar on it I wanted. Or oatmeal same way, cooked one to two hours. Or yellow cornmeal.

A soft boiled or poached egg and a strip of bacon if I cared for it.

Dinner
Any meat soup, or a little tender meat or scraped meat (not chopped). Any vegetable well cooked. Or fresh fish, baked.

Any stewed fruit. Custard, or gelatin pudding, or tapioca or rice pudding without raisins. Or some sponge cake, or lady fingers.

Supper
A pair of unsophisticated eggs softly clinging to a piece of toast, or soft-boiled and served with bread. Or some cottage cheese or cream cheese. Or some soup with bread or crackers. Some very ripe banana sliced and served with milk or cream and sugar. A cup of milk and a cookie.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Too Walking
I am disappointed at your failure to recognize and recommend the great discovery of Drs. Gautier and Ox of France—fore-foot walking. It leaves you open to the charge of ignoring it because it did not originate with yourself, which is in total contradiction of the opinion I have had of you for years.

ANSWER—It is a fine exercise for most persons who sit too much, but I cannot recommend it for indiscriminate use by persons over thirty-five years of age. It is true one can expend more energy in just fore-foot or toe walking about the house or office or street in five minutes than one will ordinarily expend in walking a mile which takes perhaps twenty or more minutes. But the mile walk is infinitely better general exercise for health.

Protein and Nephritis
Kindly inform me what should be the maximum daily quantity of protein in the diet of a man aged fifty-six who has low grade chronic nephritis. Also whether this protein is better obtained to vegetable sources or animal or both. (E. B.)

ANSWER—Aside from theoretical and unproved ideas there is no reason for restricting the protein in the diet. The amount of protein has no relation with the presence of albumin in the urine of one with Bright's disease, if that is your thought. The patient's own physician is in position to know about what the diet should be. I think it is well to include both animal and vegetable food in the diet of one with chronic nephritis.

Race Identification
Can you inform me whether there is any known test or blood reaction whereby a physician or pathologist can determine whether there is a strain or negro blood in a given individual? Has any test been discovered whereby an expert can determine whether a given specimen of blood or blood stain is from white or negro or mongolian race? It seems to me that such tests, if known, should be of extreme importance in many ways. (H. F. MCS.)

ANSWER—No such tests are known.

2,000 Years Of Style
By Frederic J. Haskin
Washington, D. C.—Those who condemn modern fashioning and shudder to think what is coming next, could find food for consideration in a review of fashion history which is being shown here. The models are 186 dolls belonging to Mrs. C. H. Wright, of Pittsfield, Massachusetts, and the costumes are faithful reproductions of old prints selected to illustrate the progress of European fashion.
The extremes of clothes history are jokingly represented by Mother Eve in a very enveloping fig leaf, and a "merrie vamp" in a yellow silk, blackless, armless evening gown. In between, the real collection begins at 300 A. D. and touches the high spots of European styles down to 1915.
At first glance, the visitor is apt to regard the full, flowing skirts, the fashions, and enveloping sleeves as models of dress propriety. Here are long rows of chivalric damasks covering a range of 2,000 years of fashion, and not a sleeveless arm or a silk clad knee visible.
Closer inspection, however, brings to mind details that leave no doubt as to the fact that the models are full if the old days were the best. The iron corset that made possible the wasp waist, the bobbing pannier that coquettishly consumed bolts of cloth, the coal scuttle bonnet that hid the face of the wearer as in a tunnel, are picturesque antiquities. But to transpire any of them to Fifth Avenue or Main Street and the dress reformers would leave the short skirt chase cold to make war on the new evidence of fashion's increasing depravity.
If the little red-haired doll representing Queen Elizabeth, or the bewigged figure of Marie Antoinette were to step out of line, come down from the table, and suddenly change from their fifteen-inch height to life size, there would scarcely be space for any one else in the room. The fluffy blue panniers worn by Marie Antoinette would be in place by a totem pole of straw worn beneath the skirt. When the grand dames of the court wished to be seated the basket had somehow to be removed, as it was impossible to make it collapse satisfactorily.

Clumsy Clothes
Imagine the society debutante checking her pannier scaffolding at a dance, or a street car aisle billowing like a bargain counter with piles of organdie and georgette crepe. Imagine, if you can, one of Madame de Pompadour's headdresses—a towering pompadour carefully constructed with an extra store of plumes above that, the whole structure measuring six feet in height. Imagine yourself trying to see the comedian cavort over that kind of headgear, and the modern car muff and the Pili Island "bob" pale into triviality.

Further back in the historic line of dolls is a French model of the twelfth century with a tall funnel or conical copie on her head. This was a device of the hennin. One of the Wright doll collection is about six inches tall, and nearly half the height of the doll. This head decoration in life size would measure three feet. From the tip, a veil of lace falls to the ground and forms a train. The hennin became a thing of extreme extravagance, both as to size and expense. Jewels, lace, and yards of rich material were put into the hennins, until the dress of some French townsfolk ordered them collected in the public square and burned.

That was a blow to the hennin, but the women of fashion found solace in sleeves and hoops. By Catherine de Medici's time, in the sixteenth century, women's sleeves were padded to make them stand out like huge sausages. The men too adopted padded sleeves and trousers, partly for style, and also as a protection against rapier thrusts.

Catherine de Medici and Queen Elizabeth are both shown in the doll collection wearing their favorite ruffs. Here again there was excess. Ruffs finally became so ridiculously large in Elizabeth's court that the Queen was alarmed and angry at the efforts of her courtiers to outdo one another. To stop the ruff's progress she issued a decree limiting the size of ruff and appointed officers who were to devote all their time to investigating violations of the edict and clip any ruffs exceeding the size limit.

Generally a decree or any effort suddenly to curb extravagance in dress has only caused the fire to break out somewhere else. Royalty set the fashion and could ban or encourage certain tendencies of style as it liked. But among themselves the courtiers tried to outdo one another just as the modern fashion followers do.

In all these centuries of the middle ages, and on up to the French Revolution, only the lowest class made fashion history. It took a woman of wealth to afford a dress so heavy that two attendants had to support her when she walked. This is no exaggerated fancy. Historic records mention that Gabrielle d'Estrees, mistress of Henry IV, wore a court gown so loaded with gold, silver and precious stones that she could not move about alone and could scarcely stand under the weight of it.

Between these clothes racks of the court and the peasants there was no great important middle class like that of today. Peasants working on the land wore simple clothes. They could not afford the costly materials affected by the nobility, and they could not work in court styles. No woman could hoe or care for a child in panniers or a ruff.

Peasants Imitate Royalty
The peasants in their villages got their much modified styles, however, from royalty, just as the nobles did. The headpiece worn by Anne of Brittany in the fifteenth century is still copied by peasant women of that part of France, and the tall, conical hennin of Isabel of Bavaria (1400) is still the headpiece of peasant Normandy. There would be comparatively little contrast or variety in a history of peasant costumes. Once a style gained popularity with the peasantry of a district it became a fixed inheritance. That is why the Wright collection of fashion dolls is, down to modern times, a collection of court ladies, queens, and women of wealth.

The comparatively modern dolls of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, show the tendency of fashion to concentrate on a wider range of people than the narrow court circles. America, Germany, and France are represented in the dolls of these centuries. Instead of being labeled "Queen of France" or "a lady of rank" as the earlier dolls are, these models are marked "spring costume", "ball gown", "calling costume", "street costume".

The fall of the Bastille marked the end of royal leadership in fashions for France. There was a weak revival of royal prestige in dress under the Empress Josephine, but her influence over French attire was negligible compared to the influence that had been exerted by Marie Antoinette.

Soon, industrial development completed the upheaval of fashion traditions. Machines turned out coats and dresses wholesale and opened factory employment to girls who had worked at home or in the fields. Materials were made cheap, so that the working girl could wear silk and lace. And, equally important in the history of dress, the railroad, telegraph, steamboat and fashion journal made it possible for the rest of Europe and America to know what Paris was wearing as soon as Paris put it on.

When transportation was in its primitive stages, a style was months old before it reached this country. From European Parisian and London styles dressed in fashion. The dolls equally important in the history of dress, the railroad, telegraph, steamboat and fashion journal made it possible for the rest of Europe and America to know what Paris was wearing as soon as Paris put it on.

There was nothing but the whims of royalty to set a limit to what could be worn up to the French Revolution. Now there is a different standard of style. The stars of the stage and screen are the fashion guards of style. If you don't like the slim, aerodynamic of the vamp you can copy the ingenuite in her simple $500 white muslin and still be recognized as a this year's model, and not an antique.

There is one new limitation. A woman will no longer wear clothes that absolutely prevent her from engaging in sports and doing her work. Skirts become full, but what dress-maker, however important, could launch successfully a dress so cumbersome that the wearer would have to have support in order to get from a typewriter to a filing case. So, when dresses became narrow, there are the alternatives of slitting them and making the long sheath gown of a few years ago, or of making them short, as now. Now, as never before, the woman of fashion—who includes the factory girl and the store clerk—demands a certain degree of comfort and freedom combined with style.

Clothes for centuries were a label which women wore to proclaim her an expensive, chaste—an expensive luxury. Today they eloquently express the fact that she is half-emerged from that into the estate of an independent worker.

Keep Appleton Clean
Editor Post-Crescent:—In Friday night's Post-Crescent the article relating to the spring cleanup as far as my statements of this work were mentioned; there is a mistake somewhere. I did not say that heretofore the practice of the city hauling away the rubbish, that is, in former years, proved to be a failure as it was abused on account of teams hauling ashes or rubbish consisting of oftentimes one or two loads, taking time at some places for collars to be cleared of ashes and waiting to be loaded up and probably doing the work that ought to be done by the owner and paid for by him. With respect to the city making a mistake in ordering the cleaning up of all ashes, rubbish, etc., by notifying them that the city would do it if not done so and charging it to the property, this can only be done on orders of the health officer, and it must be detrimental to health before he can act.

The department of streets only performs the actual labor of hauling it away after ordered to do so. I personally believe that the city ought to remove all ashes, cans and rubbish which has accumulated during the winter months free of charge from every piece of property, PROVIDED that such accumulations are deposited at the curb in receptacles of some kind, boxes or barrels that two men can lift; not piano boxes, as we have no derrick.

In a great many cases there are only a few cans that could be placed in an old bag and could be handled easily. The reason I believe that the city should do this work is because citizens hesitate to pay for hauling a small amount away that cannot be done less than 75 cents in most any case, is that it stops the dumping of rubbish in many places throughout the city by parties doing so during the night. It is handled in cars or wheelbarrows and even in automobiles and along the street and then the department is called the next day to stop this practice.

All the "No Dumping" signs you can put up will not help the case in any way and the only method is to keep a man at each place 24 hours to try and catch offenders. Too much expense in this.

Give the people an opportunity to have it hauled away and we can dump where we see fit, the most, not promisingly about the city.

Arguments will be made that some will have to pay for this service in their taxes and do not get any benefit because they have nothing to haul away. They will say that they see no reason why they should help pay for their neighbor yet they will be the first ones to call up about unsanitary conditions on their neighbors premises.

We should "love our neighbor as ourselves," also his back yard, for if he can be induced to clean up, it adds to the appearance of the vicinity. With the truck we now have in the street this work could be done in two weeks easily and at a cost of not more than $250. If there are 4,000 homes in the city and I believe there are more, the cost to each one would be about 6 cents and to place the amount in the taxes against our valuation of twenty five million dollars the amount would be so small that it would cost more to figure it out than to do the actual work.

I believe in a clean city. Clean streets and Appleton has the reputation for this. This does not only mean the pavements but all streets and also the prohibition of cards or bills on telephone poles and fences. I wish every citizen would tear down any bill or card that is tacked on a pole, excepting legal notices by the city clerk or county officials or school board. If you see this done just call the department at once.

We have just passed an election and we still see the smiling faces of candidates to remind us of our vote. City ordinances prohibit this practice but it is done and offenders are hard to catch. Have you ever noticed other cities that allow this to be done? How unsightly they look. Compare Appleton with them and note the difference. Another thing is to use the rubbish cans, especially at Oneida-st. and College-ave. Deposit waste paper and don't throw it out in the street. This particular corner on a Sunday morning looks as though a circus camped there the night before from the peanut shells and paper bags. Last summer it was necessary to call out street sweepers for a few hours on Sunday mornings to clean up.

I am giving this all from actual experience and if thought worth while, communicate with your alderman regarding the clean up by the City.

Oscar F. Weissberger.
City Engineer and commissioner of streets.

O'DELL'S FATE RESTS WITH JURY OF ONE MAN
Special To Post-Crescent
New York—The fate of James O'Dell, sentenced to die April 25, his wife, Pearl, and their baby daughter, Gloria, who is locked in a cell with her mother, depends on one man.
This one-man jury is Owen Potter, "executive advisory counsel to the governor." He acts in place of a pardon board. Gov. Miller, in all probability, will act as he recommends.
The vote of one man once blocked the way of O'Dell to retrial. It was when the court of appeals reviewed his case. Three justices voted for a new trial, but four voted for confirmation of the death sentence.
The opinion of Justice Andrews backed by Chief Justice Hiscock and Justice Hogan, reads: "We should not ignore the failure to protect his (O'Dell's) rights. This probability is that the jury never understood the issue of fact they were called upon to decide."

Confessions of a Bride

THE BOOK OF MARTHA

We Couldn't Avoid Threshing Out Our Whole Affair, Some Day.

Followed days and nights of happy service.
The nurse had eyes of steely blue and the demeanor of an iceberg, and altogether she was quite the most capable person I ever have seen in a sick-room, and the one most completely devoid of feeling.

Now that Bob had been saved from the threatened mental collapse, he would better get up and out doors, said Dr. Marshall. The old man's advice was brief, and it struck me as odd that our family physician, who had an intense personal interest in every member of our clan, should fail to put a single question to Bob concerning his whereabouts for two days before his collapse.

"Can it be possible that the doctor guesses something he doesn't care to talk about?" I asked myself. I felt as inquisitive as Pandora, and I thought I had a right to be so, but I imitated Dr. Marshall, although my silence did not stifle my curiosity.
Bob never referred to his upset; not even to his father did he offer an explanation. But some day, Bob and I would thresh out the whole affair, I told myself. We couldn't avoid doing so. "Talking things over" is an unfortunate habit of matrimony.

Bob and I, in love once more with love, and desiring to maintain that state of bliss as long as possible, avoided a subject which might make us wretched.

Melancholy is destructive, and we had enough of it.

Happiness is constructive—and Bob and I had much to build.

Thinking persons understand the value of joy as fuel for energy, and the power of sadness to paralyze action, I suppose, and it is therefore surprising to note how freely, how liberally, many distribute the element of destruction when they might, except for their own selfishness, as easily create a little gladness in the world. When Bob and I fall out, I fly from my friends and shut myself in my bedroom. Just so melancholy, justified or unnecessary, destroys the energy of many a good wife.

After my reunion with Bob, I was so happy that I wanted everybody to be happy—especially Martha Palmer. And so I told her when she came to inquire about Bob.
"You and Bob can build because there's something in Bob to build on. In my case—it's different," I had never heard Martha speak so despairingly.
"How different?"
"The man I married has no will. Rather, he despises will, when it conflicts with his own predilections."
"There's nothing unusual in that, my dear."
"He's handsome—and he likes the admiration of women. Although he pretends to scorn it. Well, there's always one handy to flatter him. He isn't particular. What's worse, he looks upon love as a joy to be seized wherever and whenever found. And then to be dropped, and forgotten."

Cleaning Shades

Window shades should be unrolled and stretched on a table to clean. Any good wall paper cleaner may be used.
If the shade is badly faded or stained turn it end for end. Stitch a hem in the end that was attached to the roller and slip the rod through. Fasten the original hem end to the roller.

Menu for Tomorrow
BREAKFAST—Stewed rhubarb, broiled bacon, creamed potatoes, bran muffins, coffee.
LUNCHEON—Carrot soup with rice, toasted muffins, cinnamon squares, tea.
DINNER—Veal stew, dumplings, candied sweet potatoes, dandelion salad, date pie, coffee.

My Own Recipes
With eggs back to a normal price one feels like using them in many dishes that are "just as good without." An egg slightly beaten and added to the white sauce for the creamed potatoes in the breakfast increases the nourishment and makes the dish just that much better.

Carrot Soup With Rice
Three cups white stock, 1½ cups milk, 4 large carrots, 1 small onion, celery leaves, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons cream, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons cooked rice, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon sugar, few gratings nutmeg.
Use only outer red part of the carrots. Dice carrots, mince onion and crush celery leaves. Cook 15 minutes in the butter without browning. Add stock and simmer until vegetables are tender, about 50 minutes. Rub through a sieve. Return to fire with milk, salt, pepper, sugar and nutmeg. Bring to the boiling point. Stir flour to a smooth paste with a little milk and stir into the soup. Boil 3 minutes. Add cream and rice and let boil up once. Serve.

Cinnamon Squares
Pie crust, sugar, cinnamon.
This is a good way to use up pie dough left after baking a pie. Roll the dough as for a pie, sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon, cut in squares and bake in a hot oven. The sugar melts and glazes.

Adventures of the Twins

Oliver Roberts Barton

"In the Mango Tree."
Nancy and Nick and Flippety-Flap up in the mango tree listened to what the lions were saying.
Mr. Leo Lion said, "Lily, it's time the children were in bed."
"Yes," purred Mrs. Lion. "Come on, children. Wash your faces and roll in."
"We are washed, Mama," came a little meowing voice.
"Did you wash good?"
"Yes'm, only there's a black spot that won't come off on the end of Lumpy's tail," said Lily.
"Come here, Lumpy," commanded Mr. Leo Lion, gruffly. "Let me see your tail."
Mr. Leo looked closely. "Well, well, well," said he. "You're going to be a fine fellow. Mama, Lumpy's getting a fine black tassel on the end of his tail like mine. He'll soon be getting a mane. It's time we were teaching him circus tricks."

"Won't I get a fine tassel and a mane?" inquired Lulu meekly. She was Lumpy's sister.
Mrs. Lion sighed. "No, dear. We women have to make up in disposition what we lack in looks. But that's no reason why you should not learn circus tricks, too. The only thing is that out here in the jungle there's small chance of finding a nice round ball for you to stand on, a hoop to jump through, or a see-saw to balance upon."
Flippety-Flap, the fairyman, winked at the twins and pointed to his great magic shoes. "I'll surprise them," he whispered. "But as it's too late to do circus tricks tonight, we may as well stay in this mango tree until morning."

WOMAN AVOIDS AN OPERATION

Hope Nearly Gone, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her

"Star, N. C.—"My monthly spells gave me so much trouble, sometimes they would last two weeks. I was treated by two doctors without relief. I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and they both said I would have to have an operation. I had my trouble four years and was unfit to do anything and had given up all hope of ever getting any better. I read about your medicine in the 'Primitive Baptist' paper and decided to try it. I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for about seven months and now I am able to do my work. I shall never forget your medicine and you may publish this if you want to as it is true."—Mrs. J. F. HURSEY, Star, N. C.

MAKE BAD GOOD AND GOOD BETTER IS TO BE AIM OF MEETINGS

McComb-Clase Evangelistic Meetings Open Sunday Afternoon in Chapel.

Despite unfavorable weather conditions which made travel difficult the McComb-Clase evangelistic party arrived in Appleton Saturday evening and at the opening meeting Sunday afternoon at the Lawrence Memorial chapel made preparations for the carrying out of the campaign which is to last until May 15.

Dr. J. H. McComb, filled with that energy characteristic of his nationality, stands out prominently in the evangelistic field. His power to move the spirit of his audience from the humorous and carefree view of life to that of the responsibility and the necessity of religion is almost unparalleled.

Dr. McComb was born in Ireland. "Ireland is the greatest country in the world for a man to leave," stated Dr. McComb. In his opening address he expressed confidence in the success of the campaign and added that before its close the chapel will not be large enough to accommodate the numbers wanting to attend.

"We are coming to help the preachers and make their loads lighter," he stated. "We expect all phases of life to respond to this rally and be filled with a spiritual awakening. This campaign is to be a hard battle. A battle of right against wrong and in it will be used the greatest sword—the Bible. During the World War publishing houses worked 18 hours a day printing copies of the Bible and never before has it had such a wide circulation."

"When I first began to preach I was afraid that I would offend someone but now I am afraid that I will not. 'Make bad people good and good people better' is going to be our slogan for this campaign and in accomplishing this we may hurt someone."

Harold C. Clase led the singing. He expects to have a complete chorus choir of more than 100 voices before the first week is ended. The musical program included solos by Mrs. A. L. Roberts and Mr. Clase, selections by the chorus choir and by a quartet composed of Mr. and Mrs. Clase and Dr. and Mrs. McComb.

Mrs. McComb in a brief address stated that it was the aim of the evangelistic party to make every meeting night interesting and each program will be entirely different.

Monday night will be "Get Together night," which will be the only Monday night meeting during the campaign. Tuesday night will be "Guest night" and for this meeting a special musical program has been arranged. The meetings will start at 7:30. Children's day will be featured every Wednesday and Friday afternoon in First Methodist church.

The members of the evangelistic party include Dr. and Mrs. McComb, Mr. and Mrs. Clase and Mrs. A. L. Roberts. The First Methodist, German Methodist, Baptist, Memorial Presbyterian, Emanuel Evangelical and Evangelical Reformed churches have united for the series of meetings to be held during the campaign.

Miss Nellie Berkey, Second-ave., is rapidly recovering following an operation at St. Elizabeth hospital.

INFORM C. OF C. ON NEW TAX RULINGS

New Series of Bulletins Deal With Important Treasury Decisions.

Aiming to keep Appleton business men and individuals up to date on treasury department rulings in income tax matters, the chamber of commerce has secured copies of a series of recent decisions from its taxation counselors, Archibald Harris and company, Chicago. These bulletins are on file for use of all members seeking information.

Included in the series is a schedule showing just when each firm is to make its quarterly payments according to the date its fiscal year ends and the return is filed. This serves as a guide so none will be delinquent in its payments because the final payment date is not known.

Attention also is called to the recent decision of the supreme court of the United States holding that profits on sale of capital assets are taxable. The procedure is explained where claims in abatement were filed and the payee is told how to arrange for payment of taxes because of this ruling.

Examples are given merchants in another bulletin showing how to prepare inventories on the "cost or market, whichever is lower" basis. Flood damage, returns of corporations having a fiscal year, sales tax deductions by automobile purchasers, computing taxes on automobile sales, tax on railroad fares and theater tickets and their deductibility, taxes on covenant bonds of corporations, income on leased buildings and other matters are covered.

Special problems and questions arising in preparation of income tax returns may be submitted to the chamber of commerce for answer under the service arrangement with Archibald Harris and company. These will be submitted to the Chicago office for decision.

TEACHERS SHOW INTEREST IN STATE PENSION BILL

Hearing on the teacher's retirement fund bill will be held by the assembly in Madison, April 21. The bill provides that each teacher shall deposit 5 per cent of her salary so long as she teaches and that the state will deposit for each teacher a percentage of her deposit, according to length of service, together with a flat deposit each year of $25.

A teacher may retire at any time and take her deposits with such interest as the fund has earned or she may leave them to draw interest until she is 50 years old. The state's deposits must remain on interest for the teacher until she has reached the age of 50 years.

"The state ought to be faithful to its teachers and if the old law is defective a new one ought to be passed," declared A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools.

End Logging Work.

Grenke Grading Co., which has been getting out logs and pulpwood all winter at Enterprise, Wis., has completed its work and shipped its teams to Appleton, where they will be used in paving the asylum road.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lumpy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits.

Death Takes Most Noted Holstein Cow In World

Outagamie County Suffers Real Loss in Death of Harri-man's Champion.

Sadie Gerben Hengerveld DeKol, the world's greatest Holstein cow, is dead.

This announcement will be a shock to Holstein breeders all over United States and Canada, and especially to the farmers of Outagamie county, because Miss Sadie was the only cow known to attain a 40 pound butter production record in a 7-day test. She leaves three sons and two daughters to keep up her family name, however, which slightly minimizes the loss.

Madame Sadie was owned by the Wisconsin Livestock association, of which F. J. Harriman is president. F. E. Harriman, Jr., vice president, and Fred Harriman secretary treasurer. She contracted milk fever last week, complications set in and she died. She was nine years old and doing her best work as a milk producer.

Wins Many Prizes
Under test rules adopted two years ago by the national Holstein association this cow gradually built up her fame. She proved her superiority last summer when she reached the 40-pound record following one of the strictest tests known. She was watched day and night by retest men who were changed every two days to make sure their work was honest and accurate, and emerged at the head of the Holstein class.

Some famous prizes at exhibitions were won by Miss Sadie. One of her latest feats was to capture first place in a national butter test in which about a thousand cows from United States and Canada were entered. She left all her competitors behind, including the Canadian champion, May Echo Sylvia, whose son sold at a recent auction for $106,000, and Tilia Alcatra of California, whose son brought $50,000 recently in a sale to a Minnesota breeder.

Worth $35,000
This champion was valued at about $35,000, according to Fred Harriman, who said she would never be sold for less than that price. She was not insured, so her owners suffer a heavy loss through her death. They do not regret the loss of the cow through death as much as they do the loss of the records she was bound to produce. The loss is minimized because three sons and two daughters left by her are still in possession of the Wisconsin Livestock association. She also has several sisters and about 80 granddaughters in the Harriman herd. Her descendants are expected to build up a record equal to or better than Madame Sadie's. The Harrimans have been breeding Holstein pure breeds for the last 35 years.

Nation-wide interest has been shown in the accomplishments of this remarkable bovine. Breeder journals have written about her many times and many noted persons have come to Appleton to see her or to witness the production tests. She has been one of the leading factors in advertising Outagamie county as a dairying center.

Information from the authorities can be obtained and have a "sting."

Two entries will be allowed from each club in the individual events which will include 25 foot target throwing with baseball, with five chances, basketball overhead throw for distance, running broad jump with 15 foot start, hop-step-jump, 50 yard dash, one entry allowed from each club, and chariot race, three from each group in skating position.

There will be a number of group events in which there will be 10 entries from each group. These events are steeple ball contest, obstacle relay, leap frog relay, market race, circle relay and human hurdle.

The games for every one will include skin the snake, dodge ball, three deep and the concluding "sting."

Ora Luebben is in Chicago on a weekend visit and will leave there for Kansas City, Mo.

This champion was valued at about $35,000, according to Fred Harriman, who said she would never be sold for less than that price. She was not insured, so her owners suffer a heavy loss through her death. They do not regret the loss of the cow through death as much as they do the loss of the records she was bound to produce. The loss is minimized because three sons and two daughters left by her are still in possession of the Wisconsin

TRAIN SERVICE DEMORALIZED BY BIG SNOWSTORMS

Saturday Night Trains Did Not Reach Appleton Until Sunday Morning.

Train service was demoralized Saturday night by the violent blizzard in Milwaukee and vicinity. No north bound trains reached Appleton at all Saturday night. Some were stalled between Chicago and Milwaukee, and others could not get out of the Milwaukee yards because of the drifts piled along the tracks to a depth of four or five feet.

The northbound Ashland and Milwaukee train due at the depot in the flats at 6:12 Saturday evening arrived at 3:30 Sunday afternoon. The passenger train due at the north side at 11:37 in the evening arrived at 8:30 Sunday morning. Train No. 121 due at 2:55 in the morning came at 10:30. No. 117 due at 8:37 reached here at 11:35.

Some of the trains had to stand snowbound for as much as 10 hours until the storm abated and snowplows

WANTS TO BOOST U. S. BONDS TO PAR

Chicago Man Would Call in Bonds and Issue New Form of Securities.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Washington—Leaders in congress are considering a plan to restore Liberty bonds and Victory notes to par value and make them worth 100 cents on the dollar at all times.

The plan was worked out by M. W. Thompson, governor of the war credits board and member of the firm of Thompson & Worley, 14 Wall street.

About $20,000,000,000 of Liberty bonds and Victory notes are outstanding. Nine-tenths of them are held by individuals and corporations. Bankers own most of the remainder.

The present market value of these bonds is about $2,000,000,000 less than their face.

Thompson's plan is to call in all these war bonds, replacing them with new bonds of an equivalent face value, to be known as United States Consolidated Bonds. These would mature in from 20 to 35 years.

They would have no fixed rate of interest, under Thompson's plan. Interest would be paid every six could open the right of way. The tracks were partially cleared Sunday morning so the trains could resume their journey. Toward afternoon they began hearing schedule and were running almost on time by evening. Passengers and train crews were surprised to reach Appleton and Oshkosh to find the cities free from snow and the weather pleasant Sunday.

Considerable inconvenience was caused the postoffice because the heavy mails due Saturday night and early Sunday morning all came in shortly before noon on Sunday, causing a congestion. Most of the mailing force was mobilized and the mail sorted during the afternoon to be in readiness for the carriers Monday morning.

CANCER SCOURGE SWEEPING AMERICA

Deadly Disease Has Increased
34 Per cent in the Last Twenty Years.

Special to Post-Crescent
New York—Cancer, more deadly than tuberculosis, is sweeping America. It has increased 34 per cent in 20 years.

In New York, during 1920, there were 5,351 deaths as against 5,026 in 1919, an increase of 6.6 per cent. The general increase throughout the country was 2½ per cent.

During the war approximately 80,000 American soldiers were killed or died from disease. During the same period cancer killed 130,000 persons.

These figures are made public by the Department of Health and by the American Society for the Control of Cancer.

As a first move to stop the increase in cancer, the society will inaugurate a national cancer week.

Cancer experts will lecture on the disease, while tons of literature will be mailed throughout the nation.

The necessity of surgical operations will be explained and the use of radium as a remedy discussed.

Mme. Curie to Aid
Assisting in this drive will be Mme. Marie Curie, the discoverer of radium, who sails from France to America on May 1.

On her arrival she is to be presented with one gram of radium, purchased by American enthusiasts at a cost of $100,000.

"My one desire in life," she has said, "is to possess one gram of the precious metal which I discovered."

The gift when presented will occupy a small vial, less than a quarter of an inch long and containing the equivalent of about 10 drops of water.

Recently the New York State Legislature paid $225,000 for two grams of radium placed at the disposal of New York authorities in an effort to check cancer.

Cooperation

In the drive to be launched by the American society every department of health in the nation will help.

If the disease is to be stopped, say officials, it must be done by education.

The beginning of the disease is usually painless, for this reason its insidious onset is frequently neglected.

DOESN'T WANT TO LEAVE JAIL; REFUSES TO EAT

Special to Post-Crescent

Paris—Bluebeard Landru is hunger striking because he doesn't want to leave his cell in Sainte Prison.

Landru entered the jail two years ago, charged with killing a sundry lot of wives. He gave the jailers much trouble.

He insisted on being awakened at certain hours and on sleeping when regulations said the cells should be vacated for airing.

A few weeks ago Landru discovered a document was missing from the papers in his case. A warrant was ordered and the case transferred to Versailles.

Then the fun started. Landru threw himself upon his bed and cried.

"Why do they take me from here where I have been so happy?" he wailed.

Authorities fear his hunger-strike may make him too weak to appear in court for trial.

GIRL IS BRIDGE ENGINEER

Miss Lou Alta Melton
 Miss Lou Alta Melton is assistant bridge engineer of the U. S. Department of Public Roads, and is attached to the headquarters office at Missoula.
 Among her proudest possessions is a membership card in the American Association of Engineers.
 "The woman who has taken an engineering course has been grounded thoroughly in reasoning," she says. "This is because an engineering course of today is not narrow, as it once was, but trains one in mathematics, chemistry, geology, physics, the principles of industrial management and the political and public problems of the day. It touches every phase of industry and activity."
 "While it is doubtful if ever woman will take up engineering as a profession to the extent that men have, it is evident that the highest attainment of the human race will come only when men and women work shoulder to shoulder for the same purposes and ideals."

DISAPPEARANCE OF WIDOW BALKS POLICE

Unable to Find Trace of Missing Mrs. A. R. Rankine, Wealthy Widow.

By Whit Hadley
 Special to Post-Crescent
 New York.—Is the greatest mystery of 20 years, the strange disappearance of Dorothy Arnold, to be duplicated by the sudden disappearance on Friday, April 1, of Mrs. Annette N. Rankine, social favorite and multimillionaire?
 "Has she been kidnapped?"
 "Has she been killed?"
 "Has she taken her own life?"
 "Or has she hidden herself?"
 The best police and private detectives in the world are trying to answer these questions.
 Mrs. Rankine is young and immensely wealthy.
 Precisely dressed, wearing few, but costly gems, she ordered her chauffeur, Frank Clouting, to take her to 50th street and Second avenue, a district of poverty, noise and unpleasant odors.
 Dismissing him, she started on foot.
 Puzzled, Clouting returned to the Rankine mansion at 14 1/2 60th street in the heart of Fifth avenue's "millionaire row."
 Last Seen of Her
 Mrs. Rankine never returned. No word from her has been received.
 The police say Mrs. Rankine has killed herself. But the police have not found her body, though they have searched everywhere—even dragging the bottom of East River.
 Relatives say she has been kidnapped, but they advance no reason for this belief.
 Close friends assert she is a victim of aphasia and is wandering aimlessly about.
 Louise Closser Hale, novelist and actress, who for 20 years was Mrs. Rankine's closest friend, announces that on several occasions she said languidly she was weary of life—that life held no more illusions for her.
 Mrs. Rankine is the widow of William Birch Rankine, who in 1905 "harnessed Niagara Falls" with a power company. He piled up many millions of dollars. He died suddenly in September that year, just seven plows, cultivators, spreaders, disk harrows, corn planters, hay loaders, grain and corn binders, mowers, sulky rakes, and other implements. The company statement declared that the cut in steel prices would not save it anything on its 1921 output, but it was absorbing that loss.

Prayer Meetings.
 From 10 o'clock to 10:30 Tuesday morning there will be held a number of informal home gatherings for prayer and conference in connection with the McCormick-Close campaign, which is being conducted in the Lawrence Memorial chapel. The following are the hostesses for Tuesday: Mrs. Paul Carr, 547 Rankin st.; H. months after he had made Mrs. Rankine his bride and sole heir.

This tragedy brought great sorrow on the young wife. She erected a beautiful estate at New Canaan, closing her Buffalo home, and went into retirement.
 Ten years later when her brother, Benjamin, married Mrs. Mary Grace Mullaly, sister of William T. Mullaly, head of an advertising agency here, Mrs. Rankine and her mother moved to New York and took over the magnificent residence on E. 60th street.

Recently her mother died and this added sorrow transformed Mrs. Rankine from a social light to a heart-broken mourner.

KNOX CLIQUE WILL FIGHT INDEMNITIES

By H. E. Hunt
 (Special to Post-Crescent)
 Washington, D. C.—The proposal of former Premier Viviani of France that the United States Senate incorporate in any resolution establishing peace with Germany a clause recognizing Germany's moral responsibility for the war and her obligation to make reparation to the limit of her ability, will be fought by the group of bitter-enders in the Senate, including Knox, Johnson and Borah.

While all of these senators, being Republicans and not wishing to embarrass the administration, decline to be quoted on their views, they do not hesitate to admit privately that they view with alarm anything that might by any interpretation lay down any policy hindering the United States to future participation in European affairs.

The bitter-ender group, however, some of their numbers state, would view favorably a separate resolution expressing the senate's recognition of Germany's guilt and obligation to at the same time the resolution set forth the Senate's view of the amount of reparation that should be exacted.

Fight Over Indemnity
 Indications are that the question of the extent to which Germany can make reparation will be almost as active in the new Senate as that of establishing peace itself.

The John Deere Plow Company will absorb the loss in connection with the above reduction. In so doing it sets the pace in downward revision of prices on high grade farm machinery.

HILL PUTTING ON WEIGHT FOR BOUT WITH TURK CHAMP

Mahmout Is Regarded as Cleverest Mat Artist Ever Seen in America.

Mahmout, the clever Turkish wrestler, who meets George Hill here Wednesday night, is one of the most remarkable mat performers ever seen in this country. He will wrestle Hill in Armory G.

Weighing only about 200 pounds he has proven the bugaboo of all championship aspirants, regardless of their weight. None of the topnotchers is anxious to meet this terrible Turk and he is having all kinds of difficulty hooking on the really worthwhile wrestlers.

He is possessed of dazzling speed, prodigious strength and is wonderfully clever. He will be pitted against one of the fastest mat men in the country when he faces Hill, assuring fans of a match worth going miles to see. There is sure to be action every minute the men are on the mat.

It will be speed against speed, with youth and ambition on one side, and age and experience on the other. Hill will have a slight advantage but whether it is sufficient to offset the Turk's cleverness won't be known until after Wednesday night.

Mahmout is making his headquarters in Chicago where he is working hard. He has had a large number of matches but the champions and would-be champions are carefully keeping out of his path.

Hill will weigh in the neighborhood of 200 pounds when he goes on the mat. He is working hard every day getting himself in the best possible shape for the fray. His shoulders are spreading out and he is extending his road work in order to improve his endurance. This should be by far the best match ever held in Appleton.

SPORT VIEWS AND NEWS

It looks as if the boxing season, so far as Appleton is concerned, is ended for this season. While there are some fans clamoring for another scrap, promoter Elmer Johnston believes in letting wait enough alone and he probably will close his season with the Mahmout-Hill wrestling match here Wednesday night. It has been a great season for Johnston and fans can hardly blame him for not changing his entire profile in one more boxing venture.

Dambino Ruth, King of Swat, has begun counting again. He picked one in the sixth round of Saturday's game against the Athletics and the ball's resting place was in the upper tier of the rightfield stand at the Polo grounds in New York. Selden has the mauling monarch ever produced a longer wallop. And of course, the crowd nearly raised the roof giving Babe the glad hand. Evidently, Ruth hasn't forgotten his last year's habit.

Seventy-four of the greatest long distance runners in this country and Canada will face the starter Tuesday in the American marathon which will be staged over the historic Boston course. Fahn and Rodgers, a pair of Canuck stars, are doped as likely contenders despite the fact that Uncle Sam's best gallopers are in the grind. Chick Meador of Chicago is the hope of the middle west in the classic.

Hats off to Leavenworth, Ind. This Elvador town is without representation on the diamond this year and the Black Sox aggregation, composed of the disgraced Chicago players wanted to use the ball park during the season. Despite the fact that the Leavenworth Baseball association needs the money badly, they turned a cold shoulder on the "Outlaws" offer. After two weeks of negotiating, the Black Sox haven't been able to book a game or secure a suitable playing field. We understand there is a good diamond at Leavenworth.

The two wins of Jack Egan's Brewers over St. Paul has given the Milwaukee fans a lot of hope. Vision of an A. A. pennant are a bit far fetched but it is more than likely that the Eganites will gain a berth in the first division. The way the Brewers ran wild over Mike Kelley's Saints must have been sort of an unexpected blow to last year's champions.

GIVE ODDS THAT JACK WINS BY KNOCKOUT

By United Press Leased Wire
New York—Early betting in Wall street on the Dempsey-Carpentier fight makes the champion a three to two favorite. The largest known bet so far is $3,000 to $2,000 that Dempsey knocks the Frenchman out in twelve rounds. Odds on the champion are expected to increase before July 2 when the heavyweights meet in New Jersey.

BRAVES MAKE IT 4 OUT OF 5 FROM DODGERS

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Boston made it four out of five with the Brooklyn champions on Sunday opening the season at Ebbets field with a 4 to 2 victory. Puffer of Brooklyn and Oeschger of Boston both were knocked out of the box. Mitchell held the Braves after the sixth inning allowing only two hits. Score:
Boston.....1 0 0 1 1 0 0 0—4
Brooklyn.....0 0 0 0 1 0 1 0—2

Yields To Coaxing

Francis Outmet

America's chances to cop the British amateur golf championship are boosted since Francis Outmet has joined the Yankee team. It took a lot of coaxing to get the crack amateur to enter. Outmet had been a holdout member of the proposed invading squad. He does not think the British way of settling the championship on the 18-hole plan gives a golfer a fair shake. The invaders leave for England the first week of May.

OSHKOSH BOWLER IS TOURNAMENT STAR

H. Bestler Takes Lead in Singles and Doubles—Rolls Record Score.

Oshkosh Clippers and Menasha Eagles killed two birds with one stone Saturday when they rolled a match game on the Arcade alleys and at the same time went into first and second place in the Fox river valley pin tournament on the Arcade alleys. The Hotel Appletons were crowded into third place. The Clippers rolled a score of 2,847 while the Eagles hit the wood for 2,788.

H. Bestler and A. Wendland rolled a wonderful score in the doubles, hitting the wood for 1,329, sufficient to win almost any tournament. These men are from Oshkosh. Bestler's scores were 212, 278 and 249, for a total of 739. Bestler also went into the lead in the singles with a score of 667, rolling 253, 212 and 202 in three games.

E. Johnston and Ed. Strutz, Appleton, rolled into second place in the doubles with a score of 1,353. Johnston scored 268 in one of the three games. Following are the leaders:

OSHKOSH BOWLERS WHIP MENASHA ON LOCAL ALLEYS

Rivalry between the Oshkosh Clippers and Menasha Eagles, champion bowlers, is so keen that they sought a neutral door to roll a match game and the battle was held on the Arcade alleys. The Clippers, hitting the wood in great style, won with a score of 2,847 while the Eagles finished with 2,788, enough to win most any battle. E. Rehbein, Oshkosh, was the individual star with a score of 614.

LYNCH'S JINX

Young Montreal
Young Montreal is making Champion Joe Lynch trouble. He has a left hand that Lynch can't keep away from.

If he could put the steam into that southpaw of his he'd be the title holder right now.

Recently in Detroit Montreal was winning on points from the bantam king until late in the fight. Then he ran into a wallop to the chin that put him down for the count of nine and he finished a few points behind.

Then the pair came to Cleveland. Montreal again pined up his lead in points. Lynch tried for another knockdown to even things up but couldn't connect.

That's how Montreal beat the champion 7 out of 10 rounds. It was a no decision bout, so Lynch didn't lose anything but prestige with the fans.

In a decision bout Montreal would have an excellent chance to lift the title.

Montreal's home is in Providence, R. I.

Until recently he was never figured to be a contender for the title.

He has the stamina to absorb punishment like Johnny Dundee, the rubber-ball lightweight.

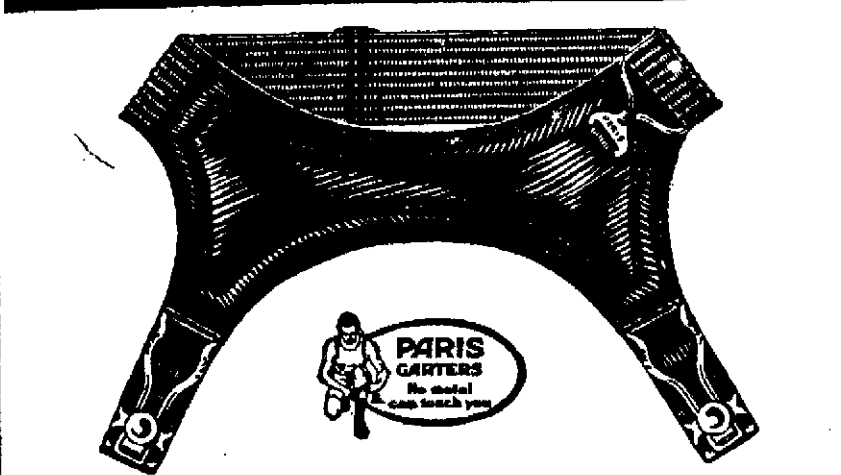

Lynch would rather fight Pete Herman every night in the week in preference to Montreal. Herman's style is easy for Lynch to master.

But Montreal is different. He's the bad jinx to the champ.

YOUTHFUL CLUBS ARE GOOD FIGHTERS

Most Noticeable Thing About Early Games Is the Heavy Hitting.

(By Henry L. Farrell)
New York—Baseball's brief 1921 fling hasn't given much to talk about but the most noticeable thing about the early games was the heavy hitting.

The refusal of the Boston Braves, the Philadelphia Athletics and the Chicago White Sox to become door-mats and lend a helping hand ponantward for any of their fellows, has also been noteworthy.

The three clubs have shown fight that covers up weaknesses figured to make them poor contenders in the race.

The Athletics have a growing young ball club, with pitchers that may come around in form enough to make the Philadelphia series anything but soft for any club.

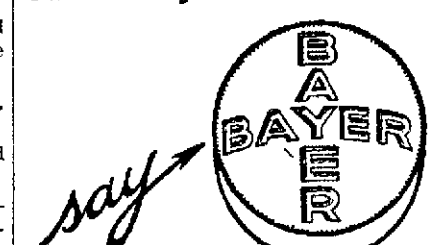

The Braves have been showing strength. The poor work of Brooklyn's all star pitching staff also came into notice. Uncle Robby's pitchers have been ineffective and out of form. The Giants likewise have not been strong on the mound.

Pittsburgh showed the best form in the National league. Gibson's trio of slab artists—Cooper, Fender and Hampton, had too much for Pat Moran's reconstructed Reds and won the series easily. The Pirates seem to be off for a lead that will be anything but comforting to John McGraw.

Mays and Piercy seem to be the

TWO JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOLS URGED

Democracy Students of High School Want Market Place and Advertising.

Closing its series of discussions on Appleton's needs in order to make it a better city, the democracy class of the high school urges establishment of two junior high schools, accurately located according to school population and equipped with every modern educational facility. The vote stood 19 to 0 in favor of the project.

A market place where farmers can dispose of their produce and the consumer also is urged by a vote of 13 to 6. Believing the city has many advantages not found in other cities of the same size, the students voted, 20 to 6, to ask the city council to issue advertising matter about Appleton in cooperation with the chamber of commerce. The resolutions follow:

DANCE

At Eagles' Hall, Appleton, Monday evening, April 18th. Music by Gib Horst's Imperial Orchestra. Players of Chilton. Everybody invited.

Want Junior High Schools. A resolution concerning the schools. Be it resolved, Section 1. That two junior high schools be erected to care for the seventh, eighth and freshman years of school.

Section 2. That said schools be erected before June 1, 1922. Section 3. That said schools be erected where the greatest school population resides as found by the census of 1920.

Section 4. That the cost of each school be based upon the actual need of carrying on the work and activities. Section 5. That said school shall be equipped with all latest school equipment, and especially that the one nearest the present Appleton high school be provided with a large gymnasium suitable for and intended to be used when needed by the senior high school athletic teams.

Section 6. That the city of Appleton be bonded to meet this expense. Section 7. That the present grade and high schools be left as they are until additions be needed.

Section 8. That each building contain a large tiled swimming pool to accommodate all of the students of said junior and senior high schools.

Market Place Proposed. A resolution providing for a market place.

Be it resolved that, Section 1. The city of Appleton shall use the stock market on the north end of Walnut street for a public market place to be used by the farmers and gardeners every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Section 2. There be a charge of 50 cents per day made upon persons using the market place. The money received for such charges shall be given to the city to help defray the expense of maintaining the market place.

Section 3. There shall be a substantial building erected by the city on the north end of the lot. The building must be as long as the width of the lot and 30 feet wide. There shall be stone or slate tables provided for displaying goods and any other fixtures which might be necessary.

Section 4. A man be hired and paid by the city to collect fees, maintain order and keep the place clean. Any person abusing their privileges in the market place may be put out by the man in charge.

Advertise City. A resolution concerning advertising Appleton's advantages as a city.

Whereas, Appleton is noted for having many educational facilities, if not more than most cities of the same size; and

Whereas, the educational buildings are pleasantly located and are surrounded by pretty homes; and

Whereas, the city has many industrial advantages; and

Whereas, the chamber of commerce has shown commendable interest and initiative in advertising these advantages, therefore be it

Resolved, That the city of Appleton begin at once to advertise the city by the use of circulars, magazine advertisements, etc., in cooperation with the chamber of commerce.

TWO SPEEDERS PAY FINES OF $10 EACH

Vilas Gehin was in a hurry to get to a party in Neenah Saturday evening. He attended the party all right, but he also had a party in municipal court Monday morning as the guest of Judge A. M. Spencer for exceeding the speed limit. He was arrested by Chief George T. Prim and Officer Albert Deltgen, who were responding to a police call with the Black Maria, whose speedometer revealed the merry clip at which Gehin was driving. He was fined $10 and costs.

Charged with driving his automobile at a speed of 30 miles an hour on College-ave. Sunday afternoon, Oscar Goldt was arrested by Officer John Kobussen. He appeared in municipal court Monday morning and also was fined $10 and costs.

GOVERNOR OF IOWA TALKS HERE TUESDAY

Cousin of President Harding Will Discuss Tidewater Project.

Appleton people are to have the privilege of hearing Gov. W. L. Harding of Iowa, who speaks at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in the vocational school auditorium on "Deep Waterway Transportation." The gathering is open to the public and no admission is to be charged.

Gov. Harding is the guest of Oscar Rossmessel. He arrived here Sunday and left Monday morning with Mr. Rossmessel for northern Wisconsin on a business trip, expecting to return Monday evening.

The governor has been an ardent advocate of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence deep waterway project and has spoken at several of the eastern conferences on the subject. He has attended all of the gatherings where this subject was considered as a booster for the plan to bring ocean traffic to the shores of Wisconsin and great lakes states, and is fully conversant with the subject.

Because of his intimate knowledge of the waterway project business men here urged him to speak in Appleton, to give the public the benefit of his knowledge and also to let the Appleton people get a glimpse of Iowa's governor. His popularity is enhanced by the fact that his name is the same as that of the president of the United States, and that he is a cousin of President Harding.
